

QEP Energy Company

May 25, 2012

To whom it may concern:

This letter is to recommend CDL College for their exemplary work.

Our company is a mid-sized oil and gas producer. We began our association with CDL College in 2010 because our vehicle incident rate was higher than acceptable. Our motor vehicle incident review team recommended that a hands-on driver training program be implemented. CDL College put together the Space Management Decision Driving program consisting of simulator, classroom and commentary drive for our fleet of pickups and SUV's. They were very accommodating, customizing the simulator to replicate terrain, vegetation and weather conditions.

To date, CDL College has provided training for 300+ drivers. Subsequent participant evaluations have been overwhelmingly positive and our incident rate dropped significantly. Our drivers have added driving skills in an enjoyable way and have furthered our goal of sending them home to their families as healthy as they arrived on site at the start of their shift.

The staff of CDL College is personable, efficient and consistently maintains contact with us to deliver their training in a timely and cost effective manner. I recommend them without reservation. Feel free to contact me with any questions.

Sincerely,
